POULTRY VET REQUIRED

- Independent practice looking for a veterinary surgeon to join our poultry team.
- High calibre field support team and dedicated admin team.
- Purpose built poultry post-mortem room and laboratory.
- New, spacious purpose-built premises, with large farm dispensary and warehousing
- Favourable terms and long-term prospects for the right candidate

We have a large commercial poultry base focussing primarily on broiler and layer units.

The current team consists of three experience poultry vets and due to ongoing sustained growth, we are now looking for a fourth member to further expand this growth in the team and enable continuous high standards of clinical service. The current team has over 30 years combined experience.

This new position offers the opportunity to become involved at all stages, advising on disease prevention strategies, health planning, management and covering audit requirements.

We believe that excellent service is key to the success of our practice and its clients, to enable them to thrive in competitive markets.

The vacancy is open to all candidates, new graduates are encouraged to apply, training will be given to the right candidate. The position is offered with a car for both business and personal use and a CPD allowance based on individual and practice needs that isn't limited on budget.

Easingwold is a small market town close to York, and in the middle of beautiful countryside – the Yorkshire Moors and The Howardian Hills, but it is close to main road and rail networks.

Please contact us by e-mail or telephone to discuss the position further. Please apply to Mrs V. Garbutt, Practice Manager, Howells Veterinary Services Ltd., York Road, Easingwold, York, YO61 3EB (e-mail: victoria.garbutt@howellsvets.co.uk), or telephone 01347 823678 for more details.
